

—NEWS RELEASE—

For more information contact:
Valentina Sgro
Green Square Publishing
216-283-2309
val@reallyorganized.com

Green Square Publishing Introduces Patience Oaktree

CLEVELAND, Ohio (April 2, 2007) — Professional organizing and the sale of organizing products has grown to a multi-million dollar business. Reality television shows and how-to books offer hope to the thousands of people who list getting organized as one of their top three New Year's resolutions.

Now, for the first time, a book will take readers into the life and adventures of a fictional professional organizer.

Patience Oaktree is the self-proclaimed most successful professional organizer in the State. In Patience and the Porsche, she takes on a new client whose self-righteous sister has promised her $100,000 if she can get, and stay, organized. The client in turn has promised Patience $25,000 if she can help meet the challenge. The mysterious and wealthy drop-dead handsome visitor next door adds intrigue.

Dorothy Breininger, co-author in the Chicken Soup for the Soul series, and organizing expert on the Dr. Phil show, exclaimed, "I cannot be satisfied with just one Patience Oaktree adventure. I want another and another."

"Patience Oaktree is sure to endear herself to the reader, as she has to her clients," concurred Barry Izsak, President of the National Association of Professional Organizers (NAPO).

This edutainment novella provides tips for the disorganized, business savvy for the professional organizer, and delightful entertainment for every reader.

Award-winning author Valentina Sgro is a member of the Golden Circle of NAPO and an NSGCD Chronic Disorganization Specialist.

Patience and the Porsche is set for release on June 15, 2007. Those wishing to reserve a copy in advance may do so at www.greensquarepublishing.com.

###